O'DANIEL DECLARED ELECTED SENATOR

OFFICIAL CANVASS SHOWS GOVERNOR IN LEAD BY 1311 VOTES

ELECTION BOARD CANVASSED RETURNS OF TEXAS SENATORIAL ELECTION

AUSTIN, July 14.—(AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel was elected U. S. Senator in the election June 28, the official canvass of votes showed today.

O'Daniel received 175,590 votes to 174,279 for New Deal Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson.

His lead was 1,311 votes.

The canvass was by the state election board.

Secretary of State William Lawson opened the official returns from the counties in the presence of the governor and Assistant Attorney General Grover Sellers.

Sellers represented Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, a member of the board. Other members were the governor and the secretary of state.

When Lawson whispered the outcome to the governor, who had sat throughout the two-hour proceeding and in the last few moments had leaned forward tensely, O'Daniel smiled and nodded.

Replying to newspaper reporters' questions, the governor said: "I am very happy at the result."

He added that he had "no plans to announce as present."

Gains 216 Votes.

The unofficial tabulation two weeks ago by the Texas Election Bureau, organization of about 90 newspapers, had given the governor a lead of 1,095.

The governor's gain on the official count was 216 votes.

Interest immediately switched to the possibility of any contest and when O'Daniel would qualify as senator and yield his present office to Lieut.-Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Johnson had announced he would not contest.

Tall, sun-tanned, lawyer-rancher, Stevenson said "I have no statement." He had watched the SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(AP)—A Japanese liner with a polite but determined captain ploughed westward today without Fritz Wiedmann and Dr. Hans Borchers, expelled German consuls general who missed the boat on purpose then spent 12 hectic hours trying to catch it.

The two top-ranking Nazis refused to board the MYK liner, Yawata Maru, with their staffs and families yesterday, fearing that without a British guarantee of safe conduct across the Pacific they would be risking seizure at sea.

RED ARMY COMMAND DECLARES GERMANS ARE BEING REPULSED

SECOND BIG NAZI OFFENSIVE IN THIRD DAY WITH RUSSIAN LINES HOLDING

MOSCOW, July 14.—(AP)—With Germany's second big offensive in its third day and the war against Russia in its fourth week, the Red Army declared today that it was holding the main front positions without important change and actually belittled the German drive.

"Throughout the night of July 13-14 no large scale fighting took place," said the morning communique, "and no significant changes in the positions of the troops occurred."

Thus, the Red army indicated that the Germans had halted the heavy around-the-clock attacks which marked the first stages of the invasion. It appeared that the Germans were using their full force by day and mostly resting at night now that the period of the white nights are ending and nights of real darkness are setting in.

During the first offensive, when light never really left the sky, the Germans fought on a 24-hour schedule. This carried them through the western border provinces—the Baltic states and the Polish buffer zone.

In the new offensive which began Saturday Pskov, Vitebsk and Novograd Volynski remained as the centers of the main operations—threats, respectively, to Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev.

The Germans were reported forced to adopt new tactics in deployment of armored columns. During the first offensive the reichswehr sent tanks dashing unprotected through the Russian lines, achieving tremendous speed but suffering heavy losses.

Now, says a Soviet press ac-

ALIENS WHO HAVE LONG RESIDED IN UNITED STATES FACE STAY IN MEXICO TWO TO THREE MONTHS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 14.—(AP)—At least 12 aliens who had resided in the United States from 15 to 30 years face a two or three-month stay in Tijuana, Mex., because of new restrictions on re-entry to the United States, it was disclosed today by Gerald A. Mokma, U. S. consul at Tijuana.

Among them is Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Murphy, 60, Santa Monica, Calif., clubwoman and a native of Ireland, who crossed the international border with friends on a shopping tour Thursday and cannot obtain re-entry. Names of the others were not available.

Some of those barred from the United States are extremely low on funds and at least one couple demanded that the United States pay their room and board while they are in Mexico, Mokma revealed.

The demand was refused he said.

The change in regulations, which rescinded the power of resident consular officers to issue re-entry permits to aliens, is part of the intensive program of alien regulation the United States has underaken because of the defense emergency.

Under the new provisions, resident aliens who plan to cross the border whether it be for one hour or for a year, are required to get a passport visa.

Aliens out of the country and seeking re-entry, as in the case of those now held in Tijuana, must file an appeal with the nearest immigration office. They then must obtain sponsors in the United States who will vouch for their ability to support themselves and who will join in the appeal for their re-entry.

After the necessary government forms are obtained from Washington, filled out and returned, they are then submitted to an interdepartmental committee in Washington and checked, for subversive connections, by the department of justice. If the alien passes all these tests, which take about two months, the federal government then will issue a re-entry permit.

Under the former system, local consular officers, after satisfying themselves that the aliens had no subversive connections, could issue the re-entry permit ,

HEAVY AIR ATTACK ON KIEV BY NAZIS ON SOUTHERN FLANK

GERMANS REPORT DIRE THREATS TO RUSSIANS ON THREE MAIN FRONTS

BERLIN, July 14.—(AP)—A heavy air attack on Kiev, capital of the Russian Ukraine, was reported today by DNB, official German news agency, as the advance of German, Hungarian and Rumanian forces menaced that key city on the southern flank of the eastern front.

Kiev under air harrassment and threat of direct ground attack, Leningrad squeezed from two sides in the north and German tanks jabbing toward Moscow in the center—such were the broad outlines of the war against Russia presented by informed German sources.

A rain of bombs fell destructively on warehouses and hangars in Kiev, DNB said.

Although the German army was reported already at the gates of Kiev and the nation waited expectantly to hear that that gateway to the agricultural and industrial riches of the Ukraine had been entered, the high command reverted to its laconic mood.

Adolf Hitler's headquarters reported that "break-through operations" against the Stalin line con-

ADMINISTRATION TO SEEK RETENTION OF DRAFTEES AND GUARD

CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL OF PROGRAM WILL BE SOUGHT SAYS BARKLEY

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the Democratic leader, announced after a White House conference today that the administration would seek prompt congressional approval of measures to retain draftees and members of the National Guard in service beyond their one-year training period.

Asked whether he thought congress would approve the legislation, Barkley told reporters that "when the need for the legislation becomes apparent I believe congress will in no way shirk its duty."

At the same time, there were indications that a measure lifting the prohibition against sending selectees outside the hemisphere would be dropped for the time being.

Barkley said that the measure lifting the Western Hemisphere ban was a separate measure which had "no immediate connection" with the program to retain selectees in service.

Senator Hill (D-Ala), a member of the military committee and one of those who attended the conference, added that the hemisphare proposal "probably will not be considered at any time in the near future."

Senator Hill (Dem.) of Alabama, a member of the military committee and one of those who attended the conference, told reporters that another proposal to lift the prohibition against sending draftees outside the Western Hemisphere probably will not be considered at any time in the near future."

Hill and other on the White House conferees said that all efforts would be made to win prompt congressional approval of the legislation continuing the selectees and members of the national guard in service.

In an effort to settle some of the problems involved in extending the length of service Mr.

Lightning Fires Big Storage Tank At Magnolia Farm

Lightning ignited a 29,000-barrel tank in the Magnolia Pipeline Company farm here Sunday morning at 4:15 o'clock during the electrical disturbance incident to torrential rains during the night.

A loss of 1,829 barrels of crude along with the old tank was reported.

BRITAIN PLANNING FEARFUL BLOWS AT GERMANS' HOMELAND

STEADILY RISING AIR MIGHT TO RAIN DESTRUCTION ON NAZI OBJECTIVES

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—Britain, unshaken by ten months of German air blows, has begun hitting back with fearful might and still is only at the beginning of her growing air power, Prime Minister Churchill told thunderously cheering civil defense workers today.

The Prime Minister delivered virtually the same fighting message twice—first to 6,000 clamoring veterans of the defense of London in a great review in Hyde Park and later to a luncheon of the capital's organized civil defenders.

"It is time the Germans should be made to suffer in their own homeland and cities something of the torments they have twice in our lifetime let loose upon their neighbors and upon the world," the prime minister exclaimed.

"We have now intensified for the past month a systematic, scientific and methodical bombing on a large scale of German cities and industries and other military objectives.

"We believe it to be in our power to keep this process going on a steadily rising tide month after month, year after year until the Nazi regime is either extirpated by us or, better still, torn to pieces by the German people themselves. . . .

"We shall continue a remorseless discharge of high explosive upon Germany."

Trio of Italian Ships Are Sunk By British Submarines

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The admiralty reported tonight the sinking of at least three Italian vessels, including one carrying troops and supplies, in the Mediterranean.

All were credited to submarines of Britain's Mediterranean fleet.

The 5,232-ton Italian tanker Strombo, which previously had been damaged by a torpedo, was sent to the bottom while on her way to Italy for repairs, the admiralty said.

It reorted also the sinking of a 5,500-ton supply ship, heavily laden, which was in a convoy escorted by an armed merchant cruiser and a destroyer; a large sailing vessel loaded with troops and military stores in the Aegean sea, and the probable sinking of two other vessels in a Libyan port.

"Another submarine, finding no enemy shipping on the high seas, attacked by gunfire the enemy anchorage of Ras Tayones, near

MAJOR GENERAL SWIFT STILL BELIEVES THERE IS PLACE IN MODERN WAR HORSE CAVALRY

By RICE YAHNER.

FORT BLISS, Texas, July 14.—(AP)—His division ready to show its toughness and preparedness on the burning desert in Texas and New Mexico, Major General Innis P. Swift said today critics of the usefullness of horse cavalry forgot that the U. S. Army might be called upon to fight where its motor trucks couldn't carry troops.

In that case, he said, the cavalry would mop up after bombing planes and armored divisions.

"A prime function of the horse cavalry, with the necessary mechanized elements in it," the tart, white-haired veteran of the saddle said, "is to go where our heavy trucks can't take our infantry quickly.

"I can show you hundreds of miles of it here," he added during a brief trip over the huge cavalry training center, headquarters of the First Division near El Paso and within sight of Old Mexico.

He demonstrated by driving his own car, a moderate weight sedan, off a little-used trail in the sand and it could pull no farther. Troop carriers are tons heavier, and most of them without caterpillar tracks that enable tanks to traverse such terrain.

"The German army has equipped itself for war in particular spots and in every place their objectives have been reachable by familiar road nets," General Swift said. "If we have to fight we might not be able to pick our place and we have to be prepared for everything."

Stretching south of the border for hundreds of miles was mesquite-covered, duned desert—with only one main highway and that not in sight. It was not difficult to speculate on the possibility—however remote—of a well-equipped army, having gained control of friendly Mexico, driving toward El Paso. There is similar terrain, he said, in Africa, Syria, Lebanon and Palestine.

No partisan he, General Swift believes "aviation — observation, pursuit and bombers—should be organic with this division—every division." One observation squadron of planes is to work with the division in its two weeks maneuvers. Participating will be the 17,000 men of the First Cavalry Division, the 56th Cavalry Brigade, two anti-aircraft regiments and service troops.

The first phase of the maneuvers was a two-day command post exercise that took staff officers about fifty miles—from Fort Bliss northward into New Mexico—to lay communications networks with a few hundred soldiers of headquarters units. All the soldiers go into the burning flatlands Thursday,

INVADERS ROUT DEFENDERS IN U. S. TOWN

ROTC cadets of Clemson College, Anderson, S. C., quickly took over from the city's defenders in a mock demonstration of blitzkrieg tactics. The defenders, barricaded behind cotton bales, were no match for the cadets. The invaders, helped by "fifth columnists," captured strategic points of Anderson in short order.

NEW CLASS FLYING CADETS SCHEDULED TO ARRIVE TUESDAY

FACILITIES OF SCHOOL BEING INCREASED AND ADDITIONAL MEN EXPECTED

Members of the fourth class of flying cadets for the Corsicana unit of Air Activities of Texas, are scheduled to begin arriving on Tuesday and officials of the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center at Randolph Field have advised local authorities that 71 men have been assigned to the Air Corps training detachment here, the largest group since the school was opened on March 19 of this year.

The cadets, enlisted from various parts of the nation, will spend the remainder of this week being oriented, which includes re-examination physically, issuance of clothing and flying equipment, textbooks for ground school work, and a tour of the school plant as the various phases of the course for the next ten weeks are outlined.

The Corsicana school began its career with 50 cadets but when the new group arrives about 125 student flyers will be in training. Other expansions include the assignment of Lieut. Henry C. Moore, U. S. Air Corps, to assist Air Corps Supervisor, Captain O. E. Ford, four enlisted men to handle additional duties as a result of the increase in size of operation; two civil service technical inspectors, G. C. McGee and William Parks; and J. L. Lagow, director of physical training. The force of flying instructors has been enlarged to 42, double the original staff.

Local officials have been advised the increase in allotments will

June Air Raid Death In Britain Lowest In Year

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The Ministry of Home Security announced today that only 399 persons were killed in air raids on Britain in June, the lowest of any month since July, 1940.

Seven men are missing and believed killed, the ministry added, and 461 persons injured in raids are detained in hospitals.

The July, 1940, totals were 258 killed and 321 hospitalized.

The nation's heaviest home front casualties of the war were in September, 1940, when 6,954 were killed and 10.61, hospitalized.

Among the 399 known deaths in June were 175 men, 160 women and 64 children.

The June total brought raid casualties for the past 13 months in which official figures are available to 94,986, including 41,488 killed and 53,498 hospitalized.

In this connection it was recalled that only recently Britain announced her total military casualties had passed the 100,000 mark.

ARMISTICE SIGNED BETWEEN BATTLING LEADERS IN SYRIA

BRITAIN EXPECTS TO GAIN BULWARK FOR PROTECTION OF SUEZ CANAL

Terms of the truce were initialed at Acre Saturday, but final stages of the negotiations were continued today between the British and French commanders, General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson and General Henri Dentz.

Fighting in the five-weeks old Syrian war actually ended two days ago.

The nine-member board, the state health office said, had scheduled its next regular meeting early in September.

ROYAL AIR FORCE STARTS NEW WEEK IN TWO MORNING RAIDS

TWO SHIPS HIT, NAZI-HELD PORTS BLASTED AND SEVEN GERMAN PLANES SHOT DOWN

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The RAF claimed hits on two 6,000-ton ships in daylight sweeps over Nazi-occupied France today and hits on three other ships later in an aerial search for German shipping in the North Sea.

Seven German fighting planes were reported shot down in the two morning raids which centered on Cherbourg and LeHavre. An eighth was destroyed near the Frisian Island off the Dutch coast and a bomber was shot down off the coast of Wales. A tenth plane—a bomber—was brought down by Anti-aircraft guns on the east coast of Scotland.

Negro School Is Struck By Bolt Lightning Monday

A bolt of lightning struck a chimney on the Washington negro school on East Fourteenth avenue about 12:40 Monday afternoon and then followed a metal brace downward through the roof of the structure.

Firemen answered an alarm from the scene but reported there was no blaze and apparently only slight damage.

Officials of the Texas Power and Light Company said lightning in recent days had caused only minor disturbances such as burning out of transformer fuses and the like. Telephone company officials reported little trouble.

KIEV, MOSCOW AND LENINGRAD IN LINE OF GERMAN DRIVES

BERLIN SOURCES ASSERT RED ARMIES FALLING APART AS CLIMAX OF CAMPAIGN

By The Associated Press

German forces today were reported to have smashed through the Stalin line at Apachka, south of Pskov near the Latvian frontier, and Berlin asserted that Russia's three biggest cities were now the targets of Nazi panzer thursts.

DNB, the official German news agency, said the main Soviet defense line was broken yesterday after Nazi troops overwhelmed "strongly built field positions and breastworks." This was the first time the Germans had specified the point of the asserted break-through.

The Russians, however, declared they were holding their major front positions without important change.

Finland's high command announced that Finnish troops also had broken through Russian positions at several points despite fierce resistance, knifing as far as 37 miles into Soviet territory.

Meanwhile, the armistice ending the 34-day war in Syria was signed at Acre, in Palestine, at p. m. (6 a. m., C.S.T.), it was officially announced by Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British Middle East commander.

Germans asserted in round, geseral terms that Kiev was tottering under combined air and land assault, that Moscow no longer was protected from German tanks blasting through the central front, and that Leningrad was imperilled by a Nazi frontal drive and a Finnish flank onslaught.

They declared that Red armies were falling apart and that the campaign was rushing to a climax on this, the twenty-third day of the westward push.

Nazi forces were reported hammering at the gates of Kiev, and Berlin waited expectantly to hear that that gateway to the Ukraine's

STATEMENT OF CHURCHILL SHOWS AMAZING GROWTH OF BRITAIN IN AIR SINCE START NEW WORDL WAR

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

The measure of Britain's effort to relieve the pressure of the Nazi attack on Russia, and to take advantage of the temporary lull on the western front, is indicated by British Premier Churchill's statement this morning that the Royal Air Force is now pouring bombs into the enemy at a heavier rate than the Hitlerites have in any monthly period, bombed the British Isles.

That is an amazing development showing the growth of the British air force through the intensification of home production and the all-out aid of the United States. When you consider the hell which the Nazis hurled down upon the half defenseless Britain during long months of horror, you get an idea of the way John Bull's aerial strength has grown.

This announcement is calculated to give vast encouragement to the allies. The great numerical superiority of the German air force has been one of Britain's greatest handicaps.

Meanwhile conflicting claims by Moscow and Berlin make it difficult to gauge the progress of the greatest battle of mechanized forces for all time. The Nazis assert that the Stalin line has been broken at all vital points and that Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev—the three great cities of the north, center and south respectively—are in danger of falling.

The Bolshevists on the other hand insist that they are holding all along the great battle-line, and that there have been no marked changes overnight.

Well, obviously one of the combattants is mistaken. Still, out of the confusion it would appear that the Nazis have made advances. London thinks the greatest immediate threat is in the drive against Leningrad in the north and likely is so. If the Finns and Nazis secure this great Baltic port, they will have virtually severed Russian communication with the Baltic and the Red navy there, and will have effected a turning movement against the Stalin line.

As we watch the Hitlerian forces fling themselves against the Russian front, the paramount question isn't whether this great-

LIBERATION

Adolf Hitler, as the world is now given to understand, is a knight in shining armor, the liberator of oppressed Europe. He is gallantly befriending Finland, to restore the Karelian Isthmus which Russia recently stole from her in a cruel war. He is also restoring freedom to the little Baltic nations lately taken over by Russia as buffer states, and they will now "buff" for him along with Finland. He is likewise rescuing the Ukraine from Stalin, with its rich resources of grain, coal and iron, which will help him incidentally in his pious building of a New Europe.

The Rumanians and various other oppressed races are to share in this noble enterprise — maybe. Incidentally the rich oil fields of the Caucasus, and perhaps also of Iraq and Iran, with many another area of natural riches, are to be rescued from their owners, to establish righteousness on the earth and put the wicked democracies where they belong.

Maybe it's all in the game, and maybe there is no longer any international righteousness or law left on earth. But we wish he wouldn't be so sickeningly pious about operations that look to simple-minded Americans like plain deviltry.

As a matter of fact, the Nazis have no morals and no friends, and any nation they undertake to "liberate" simply flops out of the frying-pan into the fire.

STALIN ON THE WAR

When Premier Stalin took to the air waves to broadcast a war speech to the people of Russia it was almost as startling as if the Sphinx had suddenly opened is mouth to answer its own riddle. In some ways the address was similar to others that have been heard since the war began in the summer of 1939.

It was a call to the people to make certain sacrifices for their country. It was a bitter denunciation of the invader. It was an admission of gains already made by the enemy and a threat of his ultimate failure. It gave definite instructions to soldiers and civilians and announced sweeping organization for the work of the latter.

In one way it was different from many of this war's other speeches. There was the implication of the tremendous size and reserve power of that vast nation and the sprawling land it occupies. The enemy might have numerous successes and conquer many spots here and there, and still the great creature that is Russia would shift its position and fight on.

That may be what happens, or it may not. Russia is a giant. If it is a shrewd giant it may use its latent power to good effect. Otherwise, it may meet the fate of other giants of fact and fiction.

Let's not get confused about this. Russia is fighting for freedom from German dominations, but that doesn't make it a democracy, and nobody needs to pretend that it does.

Those "ersatz" materials that the Nazis have bragged about so much are only used because, using all their best stuff for war, they have to find substitutes.

The seagull and eagle knew how to soar without effort a million years before man learned how to build a gliding plane.

THE LAST WORD.

He would have had it this way:
Praise be still!
Your tears, if real, only a very few.
Flowers for the lonely living and the ill.
A brave farewell from those he loved and knew.

There had been days when praise had cheered him on,
And times he had been gladdened by our flowers;
But now the time for fulsomeness has gone.
Silence is better for the last few hours.

Say but the prayer: where all is understood
And peace is promised and eternal rest,
That God, as we, shall find his labors good.
Then speak no more—for that would please him best.

U. S. AND U. S. O.

There are a good many demands on the purse these days, and there will be more. But one demand is so vital to national defense and safety that extra effort should be made to meet it. It is made in a cause big enough to justify sacrifice, if necessary.

This is the demand to fill the U. S. O. coffers, from which the six national organizations will operate the service men's clubhouses which the government is establishing near military camps, navy yards, arms factories, and so on.

The morale and health of the men taken away from their normal surroundings to prepare for national defense depend not only on wise handling on duty but wholesome occupation and companionship in leisure hours. It is U. S. O.'s job to provide these things, and it is every citizen's job to help provide the funds for it.

PRESS AND SCHOOL.

Addressing the national convention of high school printing instructors recently, a superintendent of schools said:

"In a democracy the protection against an invasion of malicious propaganda is an intelligent and informed people. It is essential that we have a vast army of thinking and acting men and women trained to meet any situation that may arise and confident that they can meet it."

Much of the responsibility for such training must rest with the public schools, but its most important safeguard, as the educator emphasized, is freedom of the press. "The printing press has a very important part to play in dissemination of information on what is going on in the world."

Perhaps the two great educational forces — press and school—should complement each other. The former must carry the information in its news and special columns. The latter should train the public in understanding and judgment.

AFTERWARD

It remains to be proved, as most Americans seem to assume, that there will be a depression after this war like the last one, only worse. The fact is that nobody knows. But various experts doubt whether we shall have much trouble of that kind.

If our national efforts are concentrated on war effort for two or three or four years, we shall naturally find ourselves with an enormous shortage of countless kinds of goods after the war. We shall also have plenty of raw materials, too, in most cases, and the greatest manufacturing power in all human history.

It seems to be a natural assumption that, after a brief pause to get our breath and our bearings, we shall go all out for turning that vast industrial power to providing the nation with the peaceful products required. And by the time we have caught up on that job, we should have the general situation well enough in hand to keep going.

GRAZING CONDITIONS REPORTED ALMOST PERFECT FOR CATTLE

AUSTIN, July 11.—(AP)—Growth of range feeds continued excellent on July 1, the United States department of agriculture reported today.

Grazing conditions were almost perfect for cattle, but rankness of weeds and grass was not so favorable for sheep and goats.

Cattle did well, making better than average gains, during June.

The report follows:

"Continued excellent growth of range feeds in Texas was reflected by reports to the United States department of agriculture on July 1. Grazing conditions were almost perfect for cattle, but the rank growth of weeds and grass was not so favorable for sheep and goats. In the sheep area, needle and spear grasses were causing considerable trouble. Rainfall during June was well above average in all districts, and summer range feed prospects were very favorable on July 1. The condition of all ranges on July 1, 1941 at 96 per cent of normal was 15 points above average.

"Cattle did well during June and made better than average gains during the month. Flies and mosquitoes were bothering cattle considerably. Screw-warm infestation was heavier than usual, but losses have not been serious. The demand for all kinds of cattle was very good and prices were high, but the supply for sale was limited. The reported condition of cattle at 92 per cent of normal compares with 91 per cent on June 1. 87 per cent on July 1, 1040 and 83 per cent the 10-year average July 1 condition.

"Sheep did not do so well during June. The rank growth of range feeds, coupled with wet weather and heavy infestation of stomach-worms prevented sheep from putting on average flesh. Needle grass was causing considerable trouble, and screwworm infestation was heavier than usual. Sheep are still in a better than average flesh, and shipments from the state were relatively heavy. The condition of sheep was reported at 89 per cent of normal, compared with 92 per cent a month ago, and 83 per cent the 10-year average July 1 condition."

NAVARRO COUNTY COTTON PLANTERS MAY CUT ACREAGE

Navarro county cotton producers who suffer total or partial loss of their 1941 cotton crops because of excessive rains, insects or abandonment. may dispose of the acreage on which cotton will not be harvested, R. V. Davis, chairman of the Navarro AAA committee has announced.

Davis said that a high acreage of cotton with a low lint yield per acre because of such factors will in all probability affect cotton yields on individual farms under the 1942 agricultural conservation program and will probably have a direct effect on cotton insurance since an extremely low yield might affect premium rates.

Producers were warned, however, that acreage will be considered as planted to cotton this year if the cotton is not disposed of before it reaches the bolling stage or within 10 days after notice of the seede dacreage is given, whichever is later.

CUT IS EXPECTED AD VALOREM RATE, SCHOOL PURPOSES

HEALTHY CONDITION FUND MAY PERMIT SLASH FOR SECOND YEAR

AUSTIN, July 11.—(AP)—A balance in the state's available public school fund today indicated the automatic tax board would slash the state ad valorem rate for school purposes at its meeting here July 21 or before.

The current school rate is 27 cents, eight cents below the permitted maximum. The rate was reduced from 35 cents last year and a further reduction was probable due to the healthy condition of the school fund, which was expected to pay the current $22.50 per capita scholastic aportionment and have enough left to pay $1.50 more.

The total maximum state ad valorem rate, set by law, is 77 cents on the $100 valuation, 35 cents for schools, 35 cents for general purposes and 7 cents for Confederate pensions. The latter figure is fixed by statute and not subject to change.

A $25,000,000 deficit in the state's general revenue fund, it was pointed out, precluded any possibility of cutting the 35 cent rate for general purposes.

The tax board, composed of Gov. Lee W. O'Daniel, Comptroller George Sheppard and Treasurer Charley Lockhart, must meet within five days after July 15, the date set by law for certification by county assessors to the comptroller of their assessed valuations.

While officially fixed by the board, the rate actually is determined by factors prescribed by law, as follods: Total assessed valuations over the state, legislative appropriations and revenues from other sources. The difference between inco emand outgo theoretically determines the ad valorem tax rate for general purposes.

WEEKEND RAINFALL EXTREMELY HEAVY; STREAMS OVERFLOW

The rainfall over the week-end here amounted to 5.70 inches and brought the total for the month to 5.80 and the year to 34.73 inches. The average rainfall here is 35.96 inches, the average for the first six months is 19.18 inches and the average for July is 2.49 inches or a total of 21.67 for the first seven months. The rainfall this year is only 1.13 inches short of the annual fall with five and one-half months to go.

The heaviest rain of the week-end was for the 24-hour period from 7 o'clock Saturday morning until the same time Sunday morning when 3.12 inches fell.

Richland and Chambers Creeks overflowed as did some of the smaller streams, but the damage is not expected to be excessive.

Farm work, which was alread late, will be delayed several days. The rains furnished sufficient moisture to finish maturing the corn crop which promises to be better than first expected.

Hot dry weather will be needed to help combat insects in cotton, most of which is late.

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

White's Chapel Club

To have a well equipped bed, the homemaker needs a good, strong bed, and a pair of good springs, Mrs. J. A. Worthey, bedroom demonstrator, told a group fo club ladies in the home of Mrs. W. N. Hamilton, July 9.

She explained there were two types of springs. One type of springs are those that hook over the side of the bed. The other type are the ones that depend on slats for each coil of springs. This prevents the springs from sagging nad assures comfort for the slepers.

Next you need a good supply of linen, Preferably three sheets and three pairs of pillow cases for each bed.

Last but not least, are the protective pieces for the bed. You need one mattress pad large enough to completely cover the mattress, so as to give complete protection. Protective covers for the mattress, pillows and springs should be of the envelope type.

The hostess, Miss Edith Hamilton served refreshments to 18 members and 7 visitors. Mrs. C. V. Breithaupt, Misses Posey Beth Breithapt, Doris Watts, Francis Parrish, Edith Loyce Harrell, Francis Young and Ora Speegle.

The next meeting will be at the White's Chapel community center July 23. Mrs. S. A. Beeman as hostess.

CASUAL COTTONS

Casual Cotton Charms,

Today we continue our Housecleaning Diet—and I'm sure that those of you who have been following the routine as given last week are feeling better—and lighter in weight. Perhaps your skirt band is looser (such a nice feeling) or that dress that pulled a little over the hips now fits just right.

Summer is a wonderful time to reduce, truly it is. Outdoor activity is so helpful on the routine. Vitamin D which you get from sunshine is so necessary for the assimilation of the minerals and vitamins in your fruits and vegetables and those fruits and vegetables are so plentiful right now—and most satisfying as a diet especially when the weather is hot—so there isn't an excuse in the world for you to put off taking off that weight.

Casual cotton dresses such as Maureen O'Sullivan (MGM feature player, soon to be seen opposite Johnny Weismulled in "Tarzan's Secret Treasure") is wearing are wonderful summer additions to your wardrobe. Easily washed, attractive, cool, inexpensive, comfortable and all the other worthwhile attributes. Use them on your vacation instead of too many silks. A nearby laundress will keep them tub-fresh for you and you won't require nearly so many pieces in your wardrobe.

HOUSECLEANING DIET SEVENTH DAY.

from the British embassy in Washington that the Nazis would not be molested en route.

Wiedemann then tried frantically to have the ship stopped. He radioded the captain, asking that the Yawata turn about and come back for them at the German government's expense.

But the Japaense master replied he was sorry, in these words:

"Please express our greatest regrets we are unable to accept request to return."

This didn't stop Widemann, the San Francisco consul-general who was once Adolf Hitler's commanding officer. He telephoned the Japanese embassy in Tokyo and the NYK line's main office there, and the Yawata was flashed to a halt some 90 miles at sea, awaiting developments.

Wiedemann then sought transportation to the Yawata. Without success he attempted to hire a seaplane or boat. He asked the Coast Guard for a cutter, and the navy for a destroyer. But he was told that neither branch could give him an answer until it was decided whether the Yawata would turn about.

Then, near midnight, the German embassy in Washington informed the consulate here that the Yawata Maru "is too far out and there is no possibility of her turning back."

Dr. Otto Denzer, the ousted vice-consul here, said he could not book seats aboard a clipper plane for Tuesday, which would enable the Germans to catch the Yawata at Honolulu, so the Germans decided to sail July 31 aboard the Japanese liner Tatuta Maru.

BRITISH

ships hit in the North Sea were of 6,000, 3,000 and 1,500 tons.

The big bombers were escorted by fighting planes as they swept across the channel for the attacks on France after night raids which extended from the coast to industrial northwestern Germany.

The British acknowledged loss of two of their bombers and four fighters in the engagement at Cherbourg. They said that one of the 6,000-ton ships was set on fire, and that bombs also hit a railroad station south of the docks, as well as locomotive sheds and a factory.

The other 6,000-ton ship was hit at Le Havre and afterward was seen to be half submerged, the announcement said.

Later in the morning another formation of Blenheim bombers attacked the railroad yards at Hazebrouck.

Nazi daylight raiders also struck across the channel. Three soldiers were reported wounded when a German plane machine-gunned a train in southern England.

In the night raids, docks at Amsterdam and Ostend were reported raided and targets as distant as Bremen and Vegesack hit.

Weather again was reported unfavorable to night raiding, but the British said they scored hits which started fires among the oil storage tanks of Rotterdam.

One British plane was reported missing in night sweeps over German-occupied northern France.

German planes, meanwhile, were reported over western England this morning after light units had attacked scattered points in Britain during the night.

Bengasi," the communique related.

"In this attack a supply ship of about 1,500 tons and an armed trawler were certainly damaged and probably sunk."

Two Ships Destroyed.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14.—(AP)—Two ships were destroyed and another was set afire yesterday in a British air raid on a convoy outside Tripoli, Libya, the RAF Middle East communique reported today.

"Bomber aircraft on the RAF carried out successful attacks on an enemy convoi outside Tripoli yesterday," it said.

"A 7,000-ton ship was hit, set afire and destroyed. Huge columns of black smoke rose to a great height from the vessel.

"One three-masted schooner, apparently carrying oil or munitions, blew up when hit by a bomb and another 100-ton vessel was hit and seen burning steadily. Several large bombs were also dropped on ships inside the harbor."

CONGRESS

Roosevelt met with seven democratic and two republican members of the Senate and House. General Marshall, army chief of staff, also was present.

The congressional members included Senate Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky; Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate foreign relations committee; Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the senate military committee; Senator Hill (D-Ala), senate whip and member of the military committee; Senator Austin (R-Vt), assistant minority leader and member of the military committee; Speaker Rayburn; House Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts; Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee, and Representative Wadsworth (R-NY.)

The chief executive has suggested that it might be well to extend the service period, particularly of men assigned to outlying posts, such as those in Alaska, Hawaii and in the Atlantic. Administration officials have taken the position that maximum efficiency would not be served if it were necessary continuously to replace portions of troops on duty at distant stations.

Meanwhile the senate military committee deferred for a week consideration of legislation which would authorize President Roosevelt to requisition private property for defense urposes.

The committee was scheduled to take up the measure today, but members said a postponement was agreed upon at the request of Senator Chandler (D-Ky), who was out of the city and unable to attend the meeting.

Despite the fact that the bill is a modified form of requisition legislation originally sought by the war department, it was expected to kick up considerable controversy on the senate floor and Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said Republicans generally would oppose it.

Property Requisitioning.

Under it the government would be empowered to requisition private property needed specifically for defense puroses. The first version sonsored by the war department would have delegated power to take over property for virtually any purpose the government desired to serve.

The fight over roperty requisitioning appeared likely to develop as a senate prelude to the two part issue, now confronting congress over the use and duration of service of the 900,000 National Guardsmen and selective service trainees in the army.

Reynolds said he would ask the military committee to begin hearings Wednesday on legislation advocated by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, to permit holding the men in service beyond the one year for which they were called and to remove restrictions preventing their use outside the Western Hemisphere or American possessions.

RUSSIAN

count, the Germans are sending batteries of anti-aircraft guns and squadrons of Messerschmitt fighting planes along with their tanks, secrificing speed the better to combat Russian bombers.

The Russian air force still is harassing the tanks, it was said, and fighters engage the Messerschmitts.

The Saturday accord for joint action by Britain and Russia was welcomed today by Russians who believed it to be the final link enclosing the reich within two fronts and assuring eventual allied victory. The official press reported that crowds throughout the country cheered yesterday's radio announcement of the pact.

Pravda Features Accord.

Pravda, newspaper of the Communist party, devoted its front page to photographs of the signing ceremony, the agreement itself and an editorial pointing out the strategic value of the instrument.

The first communique of the day, issued shortly after midnight as a resume of the preceding day, acknowledged inferentially that the Germans had crossed the Dnepr river it at least one place, but indicated that the Germans failed to keep their bridgehead.

It claimed recapture of Rogachev, which is on the Moscow side of the river about 250 miles from the capital.

Soviet aviation struck at Iasi, Rumani, the Rumanian oil center of Ploesti and the Rumanian city of Roman, the morning communique said, and throughout yesterday raided German airfields and armored columns.

Ninety-four German and 13 Soviet planes were declared destroyed in the furious battles of the air.

richest industrial and farming regions had been forced. German planes rained destruction on Kiev's warehouses, and hangars and even destroyed the city's waterworks, it was said.

That was the picture to be pieced together from the words of authorized German spokesmen, DNB, the official news agency, and—in slight degree—from the daily communique from Adolf Hitler's headquarters.

The Nazi high command reported tersely that "break-through operations on the eastern front continue on schedule."

Supplementing the brief communique, the Berlin radio declared that Nazi troops driving toward Leningrad had gained new ground after wrecking Soviet bunkers and scattering Red army forces.

North of the Pinsk marshes, the radio asserted, German invasion columns moved forward on a broad front across the Dnepr River and the upper reaches of the Dvina River after breaking through the Stalin line.

Outrages Charged.

A Soviet communique, reporting an overnight lull in the fighting, said that "torturers of the medieval inquisitioners pale before the outrages perpetrated by the Hitlerian bandits."

The communique asserted that every fifth resident of a Soviet village, women and children included, was shot when they refused to inform the Germans of guerrilla activities.

The German fuehrer's headquarters said Finnish troops had opened an attack in Karelia, on both sides of Lake Ladoga, in the sector closest to Leningrad.

"The main strength of the powerful Soviet army is broken," asserted DNB, the official German news agency, reporting also that Nazi blitzkrieg legions had slashed through the main Stalin line defenses "at the decisive points."

Dispatches from Ankara, Turkey, reported that Soviet government officials were preparing to move from Moscow, although the Germans are still some 300 miles from the Red capital, and that the British mission had already transferred to Gorki, 250 miles east.

No Major Fighting.

By contrast, the Russians, after reporting that the 2,000-mile front was aflame with a series of gigantic new battles over the week-end, declared in this morning's communique that no major fighting took place during the night and that there had been no significant changes in the struggle in the last several hours.

In London, authoritative quarters said the Nazi drive toward Leningrad was "the most dangerous," but that Berlin claims of huge gains were regarded as "extravagant."

The German-controlled Holland radio said the fall of Kiev, the Ukraine capital, was "to be expected at any moment."

Jubilantly, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels proclaimed to the German public through press and radio that "there is no salvation for the Soviet armies...The decision in the East has already been attained."

As for a separate peace with Russia, the Germans made it clear that there could be no question of compromise. The reich, it was said, had a mandate from all Europe to liquidate Bolshevism.

Defensive Area Stormed.

Nazi military dispatches said that in storming across the strategic Dnepr River, on the central front guarding Moscow, German troops had encountered a powerful Soviet defense sector, thirty miles deep in trenches, redoubts and pillboxes, and further guarded by swamps and meandering streams. German engineers swarmed into the boglands wearing snowlike "swamp walkers" so they would not sink in the muck, it was said, and floated numerous bridges to get troops and tanks across.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a Bastille Day speech in London, declared:

"We will have no truce or parley with Hitler, or the grisly gang who did Hitler's worst."

The British prime minister said RAF warplanes "are now bombing the enemy at a heavier rate than he has in any monthly period bombed us," and to the cheers of 6,000 defense workers, he declared:

"We shall continue the process upon a growing scale until we shall have beaten down this horrible tyranny."

Only the Beginning.

In the last few weeks, he said, "We have thrown on Germany about half the tonnage of bombs Germany has thrown on our cities during the whole course of the war, but that is only the beginning."

The crowd cheered again as Churchill recalled the fierce Nazi air attacks on Warsaw, Rotterdam and Belgrade, and said, "to Russia our hearts go out" in the present struggle.

German military commentators declared Leningrad "in immediate danger" with Nazi troops east of Lake Peipus and less than 150 miles from the city. Reports were heard in Helsinki that the northern Estonian city of Narva, eighty miles from Leningrad, was under German siege.

The Red army declared a strong new thrust by large motorized and mechanized forces developed Sunday, but was halted and in some places repelled with severe losses in the vicinity of Pskov, 150 miles southwest of Leningrad.

The picture as outlined in Berlin was one of swift disintegration of the Red army and the shattering of the Stalin line, with the war already in a devisive stage.

Heavy German Losses.

The Russians declared that, to the contrary, the Red air fleet still was fighting a free-for-all war with the luftwaffe, and that Germany was hard hit by the loss of 2,300 planes, 1,000,000 men killed, wounded or captured, and 3,000 tanks destroyed. Russian losses of a quarter-million men in casualties and missing, 1,900 planes and 2,200 tanks were acknowledged.

Both Moscow and London acclaimed the new Soviet-British pact against Germany. Signed Saturday in Moscow, it provided that each country should give the other assistance in the war against the reich and that neither should negotiate or sign a separate peace.

S. A. Lozovsky, Soviet vice foreign commissar, termed it a fraternity of arms. Semi-official British circles regarded it as an association to carry on the war signed between co-belligerents and described it as a shade short of formal alliance. The British public and press, however, accepted the pact as making the nations full-fledged allies.

Position Strengthened.

Britain regarded her entire position in the Middle East as strengthened by the armistice signed Saturday night at ancient Acre with Gen. Henri Dentz, French high commissioner and commander of the French armies in Syria and Lemanon.

Terms of the armistice were not disclosed immediately, but the British said they expected a gain a greater bulwark for defense of the Suez Canal and strategic position from which to woo greater co-operation from the Turks.

For the second time in his year-old role as French Chief of State, old Marshal Philippe Petain formally acknowledged France's defeat, declaring that "after a month of bitter and unequal combat we have been forced to lay down our arms" in the Syrian struggle.

British bombers smashed again overnight at northwestern Germany in raids far across new trenches and defense works the British said the Germans had built along the French coast facing England despite steady pounding by the RAF. Scattered German raids were reported from East Anglia and the midlands.

While Prime Minister Churchill warned the British public that they may expect violent new assaults by the luftwaffe with the approach of autumn, RAF warplanes swept across the channel by daylight to blast at Cherbourg and LeHavre, in Nazi-occupied France, and scored bomb hits on two 6-000-ton ships.

In night raids, the RAF bombed the docks at Amsterdam and Ostened, and attacked Bremen, Vegesack and Rotterdam.

Three British soldiers were reported wounded when a German daylight raider machine-gunned a train in Southern England early this morning.

Far East Situation

In the Far East, a fresh war of nerves appeared to be cropping up.

Dispatches from Shanghai said Japan had closed the ports of Kobe to foreigners for a 10-day period amid what seemed to be a Japanese propaganda campaign to create the impression that a Japanese attack against Russian Siberial was imminent.

Kobe, is was pointed out, might be be used as a point of embarkation against Siberia, although most of the shipping out of Kobe goes to China or farther south.

Reports spread by Japanese military and naval quarters in Shanghai said the attack would be launched the day Moscow falls, or perhaps on Aug. 15.

If European Russia collapses under German invasion blows, these reports said, Japan might risk tackling the powerful Red Armies in Siberia, estimated at 39 divisions or approximately 585,000 troops.

Foreign military observers in Shanghai, however, still held to th belief that Japan's next move would be southward into French Indo-China, now the target of a Japanese press tirade.

ARMISTICE

Delegates representing Britain, the Free French movement and Vichy met here again today to discuss the new allied order in Syria and Lebanon, and the armistice, initialed Saturday night ending 34 days of warfare, was expected to be formally sealed.

Representing the Free French in the negotiations which coincided with Bastille Day was General Georges Catroux, De Gaullist leader in the Middle East who is under Vichy's death sentence in Absentia. With him were two aides.

Representing Vichy were General Andre De Verdilac, with military, naval and air force aides, and Jean Conti, political delegate representing General Henri Dentz in the latter's capacity of high commissioner for Syria and Lebanon.

The British delegation, headed by General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, included representatives of the navy and the RAF.

Wearing New Uniforms.

City Patrolmen C. A. Patterson and Ed Sheets were walking their beats today in their new uniforms, the last two city officers to be outfitted in the new regalia. Uniforms for the other officers arrived last week, but those for Patrolmen Patterson and Sheets did not fit and had to be reordered.

CHURCHILL

would get her share of the RAF's attention.

"As the nights grow longer," the prime minister said, "that unhappy province of Germany which used to be called Italy will have its fair share."

But he stressed London's need for unrelaxed viligance against new terror from the skies and warned the workers to prepare "for renewal of your exertions.

"We shall not turn from our purpose however somber the road, however grievous the cost, because we know that out of this time of trial and tribulation will be born a new freedom and glory for all mankind."

Remarks to Hitler.

"You do your worst and we will do our best," Churchill addressed a remark to Hitler. "Perhaps it may be our turn soon. Perhaps it may be our turn now."

The prime minister acknowledged that when the Nazi air might first fell in force on London he suffered anxiety for its effect on morale, health and necessary services but, he said, London responded with grit which has been the rock that has made Britain "unconquerable."

He forecast vehement German retaliation, but now, he said, London is ready and "London can take it."

"Our methods of dealing with German night raiders have greatly improved," he mentioned. "They no longer relish their trips to our shores.

"It is not true to say they did not come this last moon because they were all engaged in Russia ...I do not know why they did not come, but...It may be because they were saving up.

Have Reached Equality.

"But even if it should be so, the very fact that they have to save up should give us confidence by revealing the truth of our steady advance from an almost unarmed position to a position at least of equality and soon of superiority to them in the air."

At the luncheon, Churchill deplored that "we live in a terrible epoch." but he told the men and women of the civil defense services "we believe there is broad and sure justice running through its theme."

Britain's air blows now are stronger than the Germans' and will remain so, he promised the outdoor throng, "until we have beaten down this horrible tyranny."

"The courage of Londoners under an unexampled strain," he declared, "not only enabled us to come through what many might have thought a deadly peril, but impressed itself upon every country and gained us scores of millions of friends in the United States."

Must Expect New Attacks.

"You have just come out of one long, hard battle and may at any moment enter upon another. For the moment there is a lull, but we must expect that before long the enemy will renew his attacks upon us.

"I do not hesitate to say that an enormous advance in the United States toward making their contribution to British resistance thoroughly effective has been largely influenced by the conduct of Londoners and of men and women in our provincial cities in standing up to the enemy's bombardment."

The crowd laughed when the prime minister said Hitler had "very large (air) forces close at hand and if he has not come to London recently it certainly is not because he likes us better."

He pledged anew that "we shall prosecute to the end this righteous war for freedom and the future of mankind." and said:

"We shall not turn from our purpose, but we can only achieve that purpose if we have behind us a nation sound to the core and in every fiber."

be on an upward trend throughout the summer and fall months at the school with forecast of a maximum in training by next January 1 of about 350 cadets.

The expansion of the Corsicana unit it was pointed out, is a part of the increased pilot training program of the war department. The war department announced their goal of 12,000 pilots annually was achieved when the class of 2091 flying cadets entered training March 22 of this year, and the quota and goal has been enlarged to 30,000 now. Both civil and military training schools have been enlarged an dincreased and 48 schools are now giving primary instruction.

tinued on schedule and that Finnish forces had opened a two-point attack on Leningrad's northern flank, but otherwise gave no details of the battle on the vast line from the Baltic to Black Sea.

Finns Start Attacks.

"Finnish armed forces under the supreme command of Field Marshal (Baron) Mannerheim started an attack on both sides of Lake Ladoga," said the communique.

Two Russian patrol boats were said by the high command to have been sunk by German destroyers.

(The communique did not say where the patrol boats were sunk, but the likeliest spot would be the Gulf of Finland, Baltic Sea approach to Leningrad.)

DNB, official news agency, said that the Russians continued yesterday to retreat from their Stalin line fortifications in many sectors and that the dissolution of some Soviet divisions ganed momentum.

In the sector facing Leningrad—DNB reverted to the old Czarist name of St. Petersburg—German units won more terrain after reducing bunker positions and scattering Red troops, the agency said.

Advance on Broad Front.

North of the Pinsk marshes the Germans were reported in a relentless advance on a broad front across the Dnepr and upper Dvina rivers after penetration of the Stalin line.

Filling in for the high command communique, DNB said the Russians lost 167 planes yesterday—82 in raids on air bases and the remainder by air combat or anti-aircraft fire. Four of six Russian bombers which approached Ploesti, center of the oil industry in Rumania, were said to have been downed by fighters.

(The German radio pictured bomb havoc among Russian mechanized forces, field batteries and railway trains and said that an armored train was knockout out by direct hits.)

Authorized German sources commented today on the British-Russian joint action pact, declaring it was the pact of two parties bent on suicide.

"Both would-be suicides have fettered themselves one to the other so that one won't jump out of the moving train without the other," the sources said. They expressed hope that Britain would get supplies to the Russian front as quickly as possible because "the speedier, the quicker we lay our hands upon them."

CANVASS

canvass in the midst of a sweating, hard-breathing crowd in the office of the secretary of state.

The O'Daniel and Johnson votes were tabulated first, because the other score of candidates were admittedly out of the running.

With the O'Daniel-Johnson tabulation completed, the board began tabulating the votes of Attorney General Mann and Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities.

Mann finished third, and Dies fourth, on the basis of unofficial returns.

Not until all ballots were counted could the total vote in the election be determined.

What Will O'Daniel Do?

There were at least two views as to what the spectacular O'Daniel might do.

One was that he might resign very soon and, election certificate in hand, depart for Washington to present himself for senate recognition and qualification.

Other persons thought he might not resign at all, but might merely go to the national capital when ready and take the oath as senator, thereby automatically vacating the governorship.

The constitution prohibits holding two public offices at the same time.

The fact that Rep. Johnson, who had received the blessing of President Roosevelt, had declared he would accept the result of the official canvass minimized the possibilities for contests.

Charges of gross expenditures by candidates and campaigning by government employes in violation of federal law had been made variously.

Congressman Dies also had charged tremendous sums were spent by CIO and fifth columnist organizations to defeat him and had urged an investigation.

Members of two committees were in Austin ready for an inquiry if deemed necessary.

AUSTIN, July 14.—(AP)—Official canvass of votes in the special senatorial election of June 28 began at 9:05 a. m. today in the office of the secretary of state.

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, whom unofficial tabulations immediately after the sensational battle for the seat of the late Morris Sheppard had shown to be leading Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson, ardent new dealer, by 1,000 votes, was among those present.

The canvass was by what is known as the State Election Board, composed of the governor, the attorney general and the secretary of state.

Actually the votes were counted by Secretary of State William Lawson while Governor O'Daniel and Assistant Attorney General Grover Sellers were witnesses. Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, who in unofficial returns trailed O'Daniel and Johnson in third place, was not present when the canvass started.

The meeting was open and about a score of persons, including Lieut. Gov. Coke Stevenson and Senator A. M. Aikin of Paris, chairman of the state Senate finance committee attended.

Stevenson Facetious.

Just before the meeting began, Stevenson humorously remarked: "I'll be there. I assume they will need some disinterested parties."

Should O'Daniel become senator, Stevenson would succeed him as governor.

"Anderson County," called out Lawson to initiative the tremendous important proceeding.

He had slipped the returns from this alphabetically first county in the long list of 254 from a steel file resting in front of him on a polished table.

He then read the number of votes reported by that county for the two leading candidates.

Votes of Mann and Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities, were not tabulated immediately.

High Man Winner.

The high man in the special election was winner, and Mann and Dies were admittedly out of the running.

Dies was fourth in the unofficial returns.

Going on down the list, Lawson plunged ahead, and several clerks with adding machines batted down the figures he called.

Several lawyers, including Former Assistant Attorney General Everett Looney of Austin and Carl Wright Johnson of San Antonio, likewise were in attendance, arousing speculation whether some contest was contemplated.

Governor O'Daniel, in white linen and blue cravat, sat in a corner near the secretary of state, his face immobile.

Meanwhile, members of two Senate investigating committees gathered in the capital.

One was a standing committee empowered generally to investigate anything in Texas and specifically to inquire into the election.

The other was a special committee charged to investigate any un-American activities. Chairman of this group, Senator Clem Fain of Livingston, had said the committee was interested in several phases of the election and considered it had jurisdiction because it could investigate anything causing disunity among the American people.

Made Good Time.

The secretary of state made good time, and at the end of the first hour was about half through the counties.

Assistant Attorney General Sellers sat at Lawson's left elbow, examining the official papers from each county as the secretary of state finished with them.

The crowd grew as the work proceeded, jamming a corridor and door leading to Lawson's office.

Mike O'Daniel, one of the governor's two sons, was in the crowd. shirt open at the collar and tieless, Mike carried a small camera.

One tabulator with an adding machine took down the figures announced for O'Daniel while another performed the same operation for Johnson.

The returns had been guarded for two weeks in a concrete and steel vault of the state department and were opened at the canvass for the first time.

Provisions of Law.

The law provides that the canvass should be fifteen days after the election, excluding the day of election, but the fifteenth day was Sunday. Therefore, the canvass was on Monday.

Aside from the official group and workers, the only person offered a chair by the secretary of state was Lieut.-Gov. Stevenson.

But the lieutenant-governor did not avail himself of the opportunity. He took it standing in the crowd.

Lawson noticed Stevenson and buzzed for a secretary, who pushed her way through the jam.

"A chair for Governor Stevenson," Lawson told her.

"Never mind," said Stevenson. "I'll stand."

By 10 oclock Chairman R. A. Weinert of the Senate's general investigating committee, with Senator Aikin, Weaver Moore of Houston, Houghton Brownlee of Austin and Allan Shivers of Port Arthur, other committee members, were on hand.

In addition to Senator Fain, Senators Claude Isbell of Rockwall, John Lee Smith of Throckmorton and Jessee Martin of Fort Worth, appeared in the Senate chamber, giving the un-American activities committee a quorum.

Weinert and Fain said they were "awaiting developments."

Texans Interested In Election Result

AUSTIN, July 14.—(AP)—Texans riveted their attention today on a state election board empowered to determine whether "Hillbilly" Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel or New Deal Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson will don a U. S. senatorial toga.

In Texas' secretary of state's office were certified returns from counties on the recent special election which climaxed a spectacular and bitter campaign resulting, on the basis of an unofficial count, in a scant 1,095-vote lead for O'Daniel out of more than 500,000 ballots tabulated.

By law, the board, composed of the governor, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, a candidate who ran third in the unofficial count, and Secretary of State William Lawson, an O'Daniel appointee, was authorized to canvass the votes and proclaim the successor to the late Morris Sheppard.

Johnson, in Washington, said he would accept the board's count as final, indicating he would not contest a hair's-breadth decision. O'Daniel made no comment.

Charges of various kinds, including asserted violations of the Hatch act, participation of the CIO and fifth columnists and expenditures by candidates in excess of amounts limited by statute, drew members of two state senate investigating committee to the capitol.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the federal Senate's privileges and elections committee, states in Washington the group could investigate only formal complaints of specific irregularities.

If O'Daniel is declared the victor and goes to Washington, Lieutenant-Governor Coke R. Stevenson, rugged hill country lawyer-rancher, will succeed to the governorship. The veteran legislator, a native Texan, would bring a wealth of governmental, business and legal experience to the post.

There was discussion as to whether Stevenson, should he become governor, would call a special session of the Legislature in the near future to re-enact the state road bond assumption act or consider other matters.

Johnson or O'Daniel will succeed directly Andrew Jackson Houston, octogenarian son of Sam Houston, hero of Texas' war of independence. Appointed as interim senator by O'Daniel, Houston died June 26 in in Baltimore.

MAY ADMIT FARM LABOR FROM MEXICO PREVENT SHORTAGE

SAN ANTONIO, July 14.—(AP)—Temporary admission of Mexicans to meet a threatened farm labor shortage during the current harvest in South Texas may be possible under the law, Lemuel B. Schofield, special assistant to the United States attorney general, today notified Vice President Ray Leeman of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

However, the immigration and naturalization service of the department of justice desires more information regarding the prospective shortage before acting on the request of South Texas interests that Mexican nationals be admitted temporarily under executive order.

"It is suggested," said Schofield, responding to letters from Col. Leeman, "that you furnish this office complete information supported by affidavits and such other facts as would be helpful with regard to the alleged labor shortage, giving specific information with regard to the number desired to import, when and where entry is proposed and the approximate length of stay within the United States. This service will be glad to give consideration to such request. It is possible that favorable action could be given to the temporary admission of farm laborers under the ninth proviso to Section 3 of the 1917 act, as amended."

THE WAR TODAY

est of all war machines will make gains (for it may be expected to do so) but what the cost will be to Nazidom, in men and materials and time—especially time. That's the crux—time.

Hitler can afford much in lives and equipment, for these he has a vast store. But he can't be extravagant with time.

As I pointed out in Saturday's column, he has no more than three months—probably less—before the icy fingers of the fierce Russian winter will be clutching at his men and blotting out his communications. He must win his war decisively against the Bolshevists before then or find himself saddled with a back-breaking conflict of attrition on two fronts. And Germany lacks the resources to be able to afford the time for such a vast effort.

Wheat Growers Are Given New Chances To Escape Penalties

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department, giving way to a clamor by growers against a 49 cents a bushel penalty on wheat grown in excess of allotments, has extended to April 30, 1943 the time during which the grain may be stored under government loan.

Growers who take advantage of the extension have three chances to avoid the penalty. They may underplant their acreage allotment next year by the amount of this year's excess; they may count on the lifting of quotas by 1943; or they may suffer a crop loss next year of such magnitude as to offset the excess.
